County Brotherhoods Have 963 Delegates At Hermon Meeting

The Franklin County Federation of Mens clubs and Church Brotherhoods held a very largely attended meeting at the Mount Hermon school last Friday evening. It was the annual fall session and the business session followed, a banquet supper held in West Hall at 6:30 o'clock. Headmaster David R. Porter welcomed the delegates and the guest speaker was Bishop William Appleton Lawrence of the Episcopal diocese of Western Massachusetts.

Dean H. Jones was chosen as president of the Federation for the ensuing year and the other officers elected were: G. Walter Carpenter of Greenfield, first vice-president; George O. Howard of Greenfield, second vice-president; Earle A. Brown of Millers Falls, secretary; Leland M. Cairns of Greenfield, chairman of the membership committee; and Rev. G. Albert Higgins, chairman of the fellowship committee.

Judge Francis Nims Thompson of Greenfield presented a resolution for permanent memorial in honor of the late Rev. William S. Anderson at Camp Wiyaka. Rev. Anderson served as leader and loyal member of the brotherhood for many years. The committee to report on the memorial plans at the spring meeting are the president and the Wiyaka committee, F. Raymond Andrews, Willard A. Haskell, William G. Hawkes and William John Morgan.

The brotherhood of the local Congregational church has represented by the attendance of 25 members.

Bishop Lawrence spoke on "the place of the church in the world of today" and pointed out four dangers were the problems of world materialism, secularism, war and the threat of war. He said:

"The drift toward materialism has its twin aims of greed and lust for power, directly opposed to the main purpose of the Church of Christ. The conflict in which the church is now engaged is not one between Christianity and the other religions of the world, but between all religions and secularism. The only real and fundamental security is found in a free conscience and the development of right relationship between God and men and nations."

"The Christian church with its two great commandments, 'Love thy Lord, thy God' and 'Love thy neighbor as thyself,' is even with its inadequate forces doing more to promote real security than any other means or organization."

"The growth of authoritarianism everywhere suppressed the spirit of Christ with its emphasis upon personality and liberty. Found in Fascism, Hitlerism, Communism and the like, it is a disease which is even spreading to the democracies."

The bishop's final point stressed the danger inherent in war, with its idea that force can settle the problems of life. Decisions by force can only be retained by the continued presence of armed forces. Fundamentally, underneath, the seething grows stronger and stronger until the lid is blown off. Only the teachings of the sermon on the mount, and particularly the beatitudes, can answer the problems that war presents.

The Pioneer Valley Symphony Concerts

Many tickets are being sold here for the series of concerts, under the auspices of the Greenfield Kiwanis club, of the Valley Symphony orchestra on Dec. 10, Feb. 4 and April 7 in the Greenfield High School auditorium. Harold A. Leslie will be the director of the orchestra and in listing the players the press notices state that "Miss Helen Durgin of Northfield is the youngest member of the orchestra. Her father, Russell Durgin, is a YMCA official in Japan. She was born in Darien, Manchuria, and is now a student at Northfield seminary. She started playing the violin when seven years old and studied under Prof. Liebrikt in Tokio. Her present teacher is Harold Leslie. She was concertmaster of the Young People's symphony last year."

To Speak of War

Gaylor Douglass of Springfield will speak at each of the Northfield schools on Armistice Day. At 10:10 tomorrow morning Mr. Douglass, who represents the National Society for the Prevention of War, will conduct the regular morning chapel period in Russel Sage, and he will address the boys of Mount Hermon at noon assembly in Camp hall.

"Sem" Campus Began With "Penny Alley" Now Very Large

November 3, 1879 marked the opening day of Northfield Seminary. The first class of twenty-five students lived in "Penny Alley" at the Homestead—Mr. D. L. Moody's home. Revell, the first recitation hall was not completed until December of that year, so until that time all school work was done at The Homestead.

East Hall, the first building on the campus was completed in 1880. Money for this hall as well as for Stone Hall, dedicated in 1885, was raised by the sale of Moody and Sankey hymn books. Marquand Hall, the gift of D. W. McWilliams, in honor of Frederick Marquand, was dedicated on February 5, 1885, Grandma Moody's eightieth birthday. It was at this celebration that the Northfield Benediction was used for the first time.

Hillside came into use as a dormitory in 1886. In 1887 Weston Hall was completed. It bears the name of its donor, Mr. David M. Weston, who was President of the Board of Trustees at that time. Talcott Library, the gift of Mr. James Talcott was opened in 1888. Revell Hall, named for Mrs. D. L. Moody's brother, and Holton Hall named for Miss Fanny C. Holton, teacher, were transformed into dormitories in 1889. Betsy Moody Cottage, opened in 1890, was named by Mr. Moody in honor of his mother. In 1894 the Auditorium was erected. Mr. William Skinner of silk fame gave the gymnasium in 1895. Moore Cottage, named for Mr. Henry Moore, was given by Mrs. Frederick Billings in 1899. A birthday gift from her daughters—Mrs. Mary Billings French and Miss Elizabeth Billings—Home Science Hall was dedicated to Mrs. Frederick Billings in 1907.

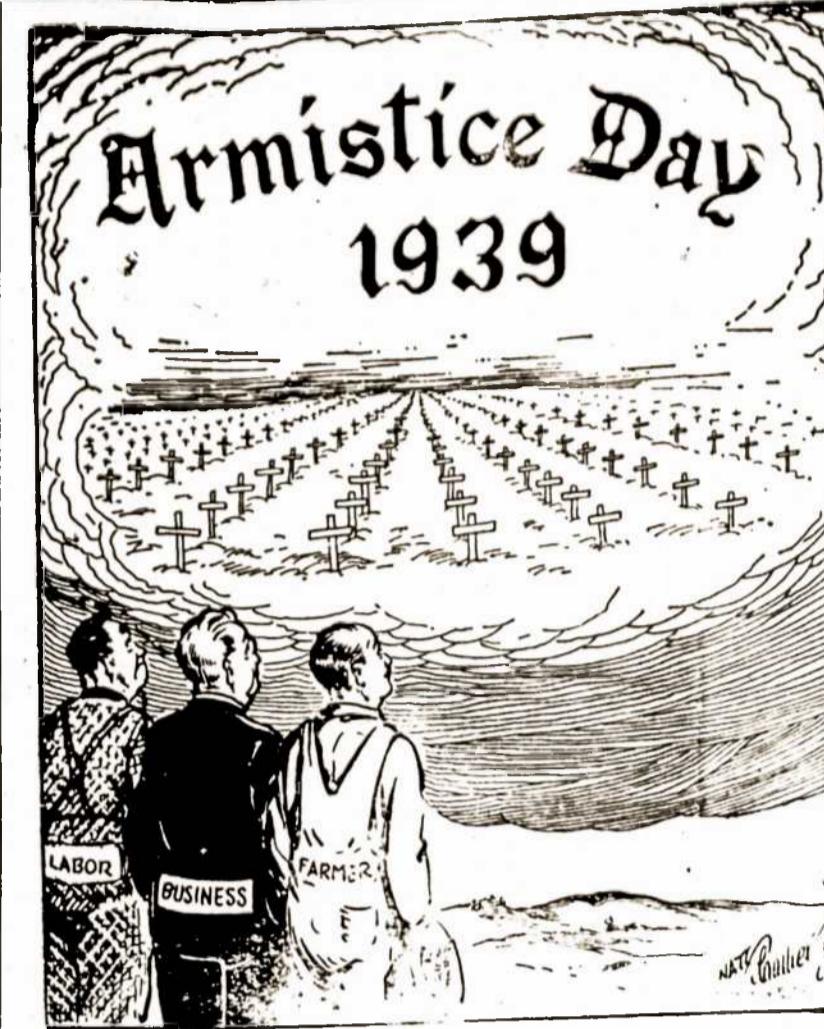

In 1909 Mrs. Russell Sage donated the Chapel in memory of her husband and Margaret Olivia Music Hall in memory of her mother. Gould Hall was dedicated in 1912. It was the gift of Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard in honor of her father and mother. Because Mrs. John S. Kennedy did not wish the building she gave in 1913 to bear her name, the administration building was called Kenarden Hall. South Hall, the Northfield Hotel annex, was opened as a dormitory in 1919. Dedicated in 1927, Palmer Hall was the gift of Mr. George S. Palmer.

The Principal's house was added to the campus in 1930. One-third of its cost was contributed by Northfield alumnae. The swimming pool which was added to the gymnasium was the gift of Miss Jessie D. Munger in memory of her brother, Merrill-Keep Hall, the newest building on the campus, was built in 1937 with money from the funds established by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Keay and the Connecticut Cottage Association organized in honor of Mrs. Elizabeth G. Merrill. Northfield stands today a living tribute to a distinguished leader.

Merrill T. Moore

Following three weeks of serious illness, Merrill Taft Moore, died at his home on Maple street last Sunday morning. He was born in Hadley, Nov. 6, 1851, the oldest son of James M. and Letecia W. Moore. Mr. Moore came to Northfield in 1860 and has resided here since that time and has lived on the same farm during the years. Mr. Moore was a public spirited citizen and keenly interested in the various affairs of the community. He had served in the past as an assessor and for many years was collector of taxes. He was successful in his work and made a host of friends who enjoyed his companionship. He was a member of the Congregational church and Harmony Lodge of Masons. He is survived by his wife, the former Jane Styles of New York City, and by one son, Rev. Merrill M. Moore, Rector of Trinity church, Bethlehem, Pa.; and three daughters, Mrs. Ruth Shepard of Alford, Miss Bessie Moore of White Plains, N. Y., and Mrs. Esther Boyston of Brattleboro. Also a sister, Miss Cora L. Moore of Pasadena, Calif. The funeral was held at his home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. W. Stanley Carne, officiating, and burial was in the family plot in Center cemetery. A delegation from Harmony Lodge of Masons, of which he was a member attended the funeral and held the committal services.

Miss Mary MacDonald of Monroe, a former principal of the local high school, was the guest of Mrs. Frank H. Montague over last week end and attended the Fortnightly luncheon.

American Red Cross Roll Call Begins Its Campaign Here This Saturday With Large Committee of Solicitors

The Fall Meeting Of Alumnae Council

The American Red Cross has fixed a goal of one million new members for 1940 above the six million men and women who enrolled last year. The various chapters of the organization have been requested to undertake an active campaign beginning this week Saturday on Armistice Day.

The Franklin county chapter with headquarters in Greenfield on Bank Row is one of the 3700 chapters in the country. The Roll Call is not just a money making proposition, although money is needed to meet the many emergencies, but an effort to tie up every individual, through monetary assistance with the aims and purposes of the Red Cross, at home and abroad, wherever their service is needed in behalf of the health, comfort and happiness to countless thousands who suffer in the world of today.

Annual memberships cost $1, contributing members pay $5, sustaining $10 and supporting $25. Fifty cents of each membership goes to the national work and the balance to the local chapter which supervises the district.

Every person who contributes one dollar and upward will receive from the Roll Call worker a membership receipt card, a button, and a window emblem. Gifts of less than a dollar are welcome.

Over eighty women, members, friends and guests of the Fortnightly enjoyed the luncheon meeting at the Northfield hotel last Saturday. The President, Mrs. L. P. Goodspeed welcomed the women and after the luncheon introduced the guest speaker, Miss Christine Boyd, who spoke in a very entertaining manner on the "history and romance of bells." She also exhibited a large number of bells belonging to her collection which she had gathered through several years.

Members of the executive board were the hostesses. The next meeting of the Fortnightly will be on Friday, Nov. 17 at 3 o'clock in Alexander hall when W. E. D. Local Dentist Adds New Equipment

After being away from his office in the Bookstore building for nearly a year, following his unfortunate accident of last November, Dr. Richard G. Holton, has announced his return to practice at the usual hours. Appointments are being made for each day. When one enters his office, it will be noted that the old and familiar equipment of former years has disappeared, and in its place, has been installed the most modern and up-to-date fixtures for a dental office. In addition to the chair and its diversified conveniences, is an X-ray machine, by which the teeth can be photographed and the film, immediately developed will show their condition. The use of the X-ray in dental practice is proving a most valuable aid. Northfield will find here a fully equipped and modern office affording every facility in the practice of dentistry.

Beautiful Pictures Shown Garden Club

Gardens and flowers were shown in full color on the screen before members of the Garden club, Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Colton on Main street, by Rev. B. F. Gustin of North Amherst. Mr. Gustin is much interested in the growing of flowering plants and maintains a large "variety Garden" at his home which is the mecca of many garden lovers. His talk was most interesting and educational and he was assisted by his son in the showing of the beautiful slides in full color. A questionnaire followed the talk. The business session preceded the address, with President L. P. Goodspeed presiding and reports showed a membership of 67 with a goodly balance in the treasury. Plans were made for the next meeting Monday, Dec. 4 in Alexander hall which will be a Christmas party with sealed gifts distributed and also for the meeting in February (12th) in the vestry of the Unitarian church when the annual supper will be served. Mr. and Mrs. Goodspeed and Mr. and Mrs. Grove Deming are the committee on arrangements.

The Editor expresses his thanks to Messrs. John T. Holden and Frank Pearall for their able services in editing. Nearly 2700 copies were printed and distributed and calls are coming in for additional copies by subscribers. By the way this was the largest edition of the Press ever printed. The issue was well patronized with advertisements. Here is the first letter we received of commendation:

COLLIDED WITH DEER

While returning to his home from attending at the County Federation at Mount Hermon last Friday evening, Frank A. Howe, president of the Orange National bank collided with a deer on the Northfield Farms road. It proved to be a small buck, which scampered away, as quickly as it had dashed in front of the car. It just eluded a truck going in the opposite direction and was in front of Mr. Howe's car as he was about to pass the truck. The Howe car will require a new fender and headlight.

State Planning Board Surveys Northfield Among County Towns

The Massachusetts State Planning Board has reported on its survey of land utilization in eight towns in Franklin county, namely, Bernardston, Buckland, Erving, Leverett, Montague, Northfield, Orange and Whately. This report is part of a study covering 300 towns in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under the direction of Elisabeth M. Herlihy, chairman of the State Planning Board, as a project of the Works Progress Administration, supervised by Dr. David I. Rozman, Associate Consultant to the State Planning Board and professor of Economics at the Mass. State College.

In his analysis of the survey findings in Northfield Dr. Rozman said:

"The town of Northfield contains two distinctly different types of natural background. The western section is a part of the Connecticut Valley and contains considerable areas of good agricultural land, where dairying, truck gardening and general farming have an extensive development. The whole eastern section is too rough and rocky for agricultural use and is largely under forest cover. Some of this land is now included in state forest. Farms occupy 61 per cent of the total town area, with an average value of $54 per acre for farm land and buildings.

The population has been slowly increasing since 1910, reaching a total of 1,950 in 1935.

Because of its varied physical background and favorable location, the town offers good opportunities for a combination of land uses under a well planned system of land utilization. Part-time farming, residential and recreational land uses are likely to grow in importance with the further progress of the town."

Detailed findings of the survey are portrayed on a series of five maps for each town. The first map shows the present use made of each individual tract of land in the town indicating areas devoted to specific kinds of agriculture, types of forests, recreational, industrial, commercial and residential uses.

The second map indicates the location of roads and buildings, showing various types of farms; residential, commercial and industrial buildings; schools, hospitals and churches, private, semi-public and public parks, playgrounds, golf courses, aviation fields, cemeteries, and water-supply reservoirs.

The third map shows the character of soil in each section of the township classified by productivity and adaptability for agriculture.

The topography of the town is presented on a fourth map by means of contours; and the fifth map indicates the roads and waterways.

Miss Herlihy said that while the major purpose of the survey is to furnish local planning bodies with essential data by which they may promote the best utilization of land within their towns, the maps also have great value to banks, town assessors and others who appraise the present and prospective property values. The survey also is proving valuable to the Department of Conservation in determining areas to be acquired under the long-term reforestation program which provides for the purchase by the state of 500,000 acres of land during the next 20 years.

High School Seniors To Present Play

The senior class of Northfield High School will present "Little Women" in the town hall on Friday evening, Nov. 17. The play has been adapted from the novel by Louisa M. Alcott which has been a favorite with young people for many years. Since the time of the play is the Civil War period, the costumes will add much interest. While most of those who are taking part are seniors, they will be assisted by two underclassmen, Winona Robinson as Beth, and Herbert Marcum as Professor Bhaer.

"Let me congratulate you on the splendid issue of our paper that you gave us last week. You covered the special local happenings in a masterly way. Of course we appreciate your usual local news. Three families for whom I subscribe read eagerly every word in the 'Press' as soon as it arrives.

EDITORIAL

New Yorkers frequently guess wrong. Attendance at the World's Fair came far below expectations this year. But it will carry on another year, and "when the flowers bloom in the spring tra la la" Grover Whelan will be ushering in the second series of great exhibits, sights and amusements on the Flushing meadows.

When Admiral Byrd arrives at the South Pole in a few weeks it may be that he will be called upon to carry out a formality of abandoning "Little America," inasmuch as the British are claiming that area of the South Polar region.

News reports are to the effect that the Byrd expedition, which is official and has the authorization of Congress, with appropriations sufficient to carry on work, will make claims to vast new areas of the frozen polar-regions where no other government has ever landed one of its citizens, or attempted to place its flag.

The expedition is bound to be an historic one, particularly because for the first time it will establish permanent stations, always to be occupied by American citizens.

Whatever may be said regarding the merits of the hostel movement, pro or con, in our community, there is no denying that Northfield citizens accorded the scheme, and its establishment in the community of its headquarters with acclaim. Through the brief short years as it has progressed, it has acquired property, and with it a policy of tax exemption by reason of its incorporated purposes. With the purchase of the Sankey home and later of the Mountain View hotel it has removed from the taxable list considerable item of tax revenues, which shifted upon the shoulders of other taxpayers has brought a reproach and criticism. A wave of unpopularity is increasing. Now that another property has been purchased, its possible exemption is alarming.

At the headquarters the hostel conducts a selling enterprise, a business of real proportion. In the local hostel, over half of the premises are used for private residence, which has an income value. There is nothing charitable in these facts and many citizens feel that these items should at least bear its tax burden. The assessors are being spurred for action and assessment and to exempt that portion of property only which has no income value despite the privileges granted under the incorporation. Other local citizens may carry the matter further to secure what they term justice. Local taxpayers do not feel like adding to their tax burdens in order to free the hostel and its management from paying the cost of government. Most of our citizens, who are concerned over the situation are not criticizing the movement but rather they do not condone its policy.

This picture is just a reminder that the football season is now in full swing. Thousands are crowding the bleachers everywhere to witness this most fascinating game of the fall season.

42°, the rainfall is 3.33 inches. November and December are the two months which usually have the basement pretty dry and warm, which of course causes most vegetables to shrink, but such conditions are heaven for squash. They like it dry and will stand it much warmer than the average vegetable. So you see you are not taking any risk if you buy your winter supply of squashes and store them. With 50 pies and all the baked squash, our family of five probably will use about 100 pounds.

You can put them in the cellar. You can put them in the attic. You can put them in the clothes closet, or anywhere so that they are dry and free from frost. But incidentally when you handle them, handle them rather gingerly. They are hard as bricks, but they bruise quite easily. At least they bruise enough to allow decay organisms to get going.

And speaking of squash always reminds me of the question: Can you tell a pumpkin from a squash? The names are used interchangeably in many cases. And as far as I am concerned, I am never certain until the particular product has ripened. A squash has an irregular, rather soft stem, while the pumpkin stem is followed lengthwise and is rather hard.

I don't know what you are going to do about it, but I for one am going to lay in a good supply of squash and be assured of my Thanksgiving (both days) dessert.

Incidentally where I came from, in the Middle West, squashes never went into pies. Pumpkins were pie makers out there. Squashes were used for baking, and when Mum bakes them, there is nothing much better than baked squash.

Now-a-days you can start quite an argument on whether it pays to store vegetables. You usually have to have a special compartment in your cellar, but if you grow all of the vegetables which I suggested last spring, you would need a special room in your base-

NOW YOU CAN DO IT TOO!

Here is fascinating news that concerns YOUR entire future! News that now brings Success and Happiness right to YOUR doorstep!

Walter P. Chrysler: ✓
"Of great interest and value."

Wm Wrigley, Jr.: ✓
"Thousands must have been waiting for something just like this."

Thomas A. Edison: ✓
"Extremely interesting and of great practical value."

Only something unusual could bring similar praise from thousands of America's leading men and women.

And something unusual HAS happened — a book that concerns YOU and YOUR success and happiness.

It deals with the biggest problem you and all of us face. The problem of getting along with people. The problem of influence among them with whom we come in contact in business, social and every day life.

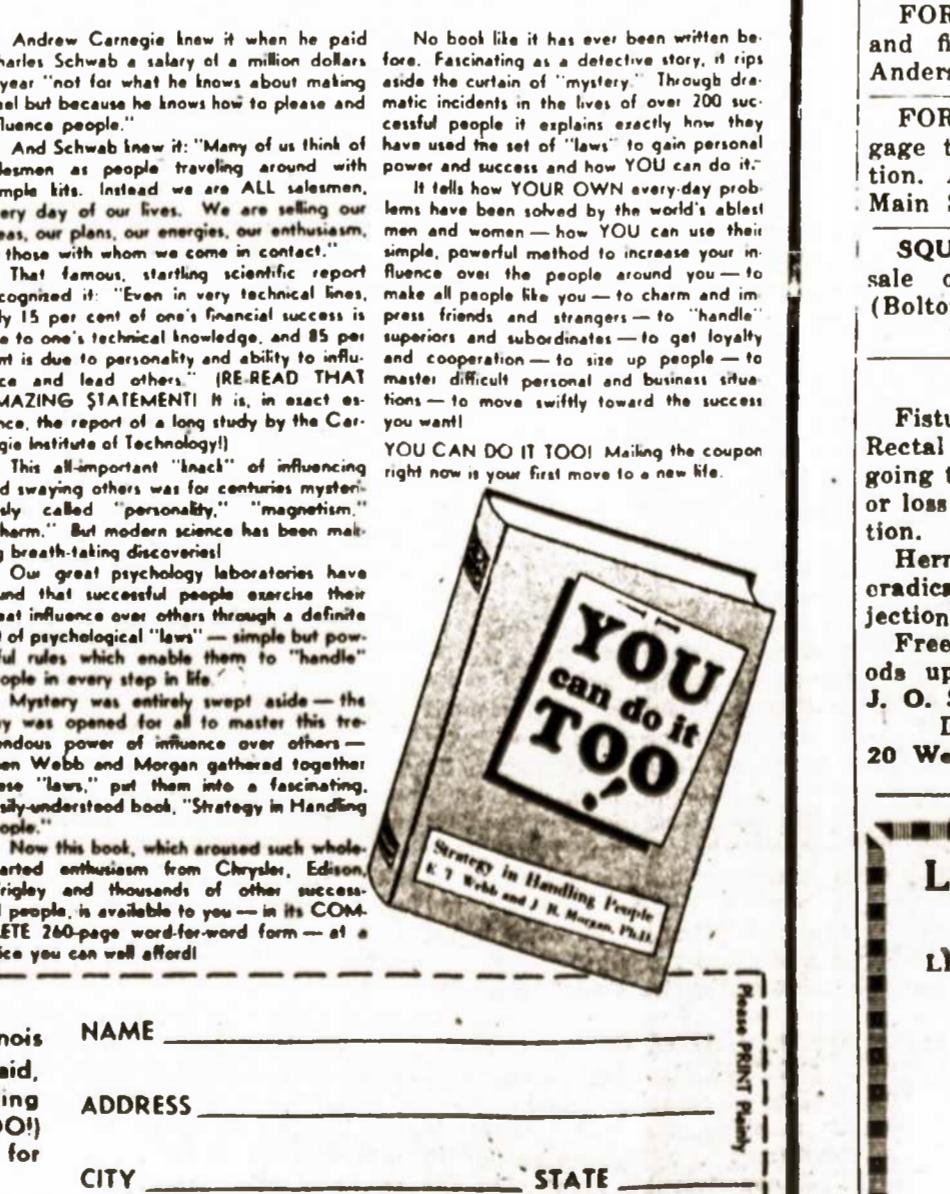

Because this is your most important problem?

Because ONLY THROUGH OTHERS is it possible for any of us to succeed — to get what we want from life. You difficulties of today — you successes of tomorrow — are the result of how you deal with others.

Successful men and women recognize this need of influencing others as their most important life problem.

John D. Rockefeller knew it when he said "Ability to deal with human nature is a commodity far more valuable than any other thing under the sun."

Get Much Attention

Motorists have had the whole month of October to get their cars inspected, and yet many automobiles are operating without a display of the new sticker. Since Tuesday and beginning the first, State Troopers and the police of the various cities and towns are stopping cars and demanding explanation. Prosecution will follow every person driving a car which has not been inspected. Cars not inspected are ruled off the road.

Now another move comes in a very definite way to eliminate the speedster. In cities and congested areas of towns, the 25-mile speed limit is being enforced. Motorists traveling at unreasonable speed will be charged with violations. Night driving outside restricted areas is requested at not over 45 miles per hour and speed over 50 or 60 at any time, day or night will be banned. The Governor made an appeal to motorists to limit speed over the radio on Wednesday evening.

A word to cyclists: Section 13 of Chapter 85 of the General Laws states that no one has a right to ride a bicycle, during the period from one-half hour after sunset to a half hour before sunrise without a light attached to the bicycle visible from the front and rear. Violation is punishable by a fine of $20. The law is being violated and particularly so about Northfield where there are many bicycles. The Press is calling attention to this violation in order that bicycle riders may be informed of the fact and govern themselves accordingly. Drastic action will follow continued violation.
